

JUSTICEWEB

The Future of Justice Solutions is Here!

When it comes to criminal justice, New Dawn Technologies recognizes the power of the Internet. It provides a common thread among the various criminal justice agencies that gives them the ability to view and share vital information. JusticeWeb empowers government agencies to share information, receive electronic files and payments, and continually interact with others.

JusticeWeb combines many eSolutions into one package. Your court or agency can choose one or all of its solutions, allowing you to provide the services that will help you run more efficiently. Whether you combine e-filing with downloadable forms or public access with e-payments, you choose how best to interact and exchange information with the public, other courts or agencies, or even law enforcement. As always, you design the look, feel, accessibility of data, and security requirements.

What is JusticeWeb?

JusticeWeb was developed from customer and market feedback, technological advancements, and justice community research. The solutions provided through this innovative new tool represent the needs of courts and agencies all over the country. A few of the things JusticeWeb offers include:

- E-Filing: Cut down on time, travel, and filing costs by exchanging legal forms through the JusticeWeb e-filing portal.
- E-Discovery: The JusticeWeb e-discovery portal will ease the burden of the discovery phase by establishing contact between involved parties. E-discovery includes a submission portal and grants access to important dates and events.
- E-Payments: Allow secure payments of tickets, fines, fees, and other obligations through the Internet with JusticeWeb's e-payment portal.
- Pro se Litigation: JusticeWeb's pro se litigation portal will walk self-represented defendants through the legal process and help them find important dates, events, and documents.
- Public Portal: In today's justice community, transparency and accountability of government agencies is a necessity. Through JusticeWeb's public portal, other key agencies, users, or the general public can securely access data that you define.

“In its broadest sense, E-government refers to governments’ best hopes to reduce costs, whilst promoting economic development, increasing transparency in government, improving services delivery and public administration, and facilitating the advancement of an information society.”

—E-Government News: ICTs in Government

“Information and communications technologies are used to streamline government and connect it more closely with the people it is supposed to serve.”

—E-government Handbook

What is JusticeWeb?

JusticeWeb was developed from customer and market feedback, technological advancements, and justice community research. The solutions provided to you through this innovative new tool represent the needs of courts and agencies all over the country. The following is a brief descriptions of some of the solutions you will experience with JusticeWeb:

- E-Filing: Cut down on time, travel, and costs of filing by submitting or allow submission of legal documents, forms, and fees through the JusticeWeb e-filing portal.
- E-Discovery: Discovery can be one of the most frustrating times of the trial process. JusticeWeb's e-discovery portal will ease the burden by establishing a forum of contact between involved parties, a submission portal for evidence, and access to calendars for important dates and events.
- E-Payments: Allow payment of traffic/parking tickets, fines, fees, and other obligations through the Internet through JusticeWeb's e-payment portal. E-payments through JusticeWeb are fast, easy, and as secure as if you were working online with your personal bank account.
- Pro se Litigation: With legal fees on the rise, more and more defendants are turning toward pro se litigation as a lower cost alternative, however, due to defendant inexperience, the legal system can be bogged down. JusticeWeb's pro se litigation portal will walk self-representing litigants through the legal process, giving them access to important dates, events, and documents.
- Public Portal: Unlike some software companies, just because we develop something new doesn't mean we get rid of things that work to make room. You will still have access to all the functionality of JusticeWebview through JusticeWeb's public access portal.
